
ART OF THE HAND

Election Poster Promoting Rajiv Ghandi's Congress Party (India, circa 1988)

Although the upper portion of this poster attempts to extol the "Congress Party" to victory with the hand espousing a stop of corruption, the swatch underneath says, "These are the sons of mother India who are agents of nuclear weapons," reflecting political uncertainties and indecision.

Collection of Dr. Lorenzo G. Walker

Readers are invited to submit photographs and short descriptions of interesting objects of art related to the hand to the Editor-in-Chief. All items should be cited with a provenance and free of copyright restrictions. No submitted materials will be returned and no guarantee of publication is assured.